

National Access Cannabis adds Christopher Kane as new Chief Operating Officer

Retail Operations veteran to assist NAC as it expands its Canadian footprint

OTTAWA, Dec. 12, 2017 /CNW/ - National Access Cannabis Corp. ("NAC" or the "Company") (TSX VENTURE: NAC), Canada's best practices leader in delivering secure, safe, and responsible access to legal medical cannabis today announced that Christopher Kane has joined the Company as its Chief Operating Officer. Mr. Kane will be responsible for overseeing NAC's day-to-day operations, advancing its future retail operations, as well as implementing the Company's long-term business strategy.

"Chris brings a diverse background in both Canadian Retail and Pharmaceutical operations to our team at a pivotal stage of our growth," said Mark Goliger, Chief Executive Officer of National Access Cannabis. "Importantly, his deep knowledge and experience in the security protocols required to responsibly manage controlled substances for the pharmaceutical industry will be particularly relevant as we pursue a potential retail distribution model."

"Our commitment to providing safe and responsible access to legal cannabis extends to the potential retail operations that we may operate, and implementing the procedures early in the development of these new locations will be key to their success," said Christopher Kane, Chief Operating Officer of National Access Cannabis. "I look forward to working with the entire management team as we continue to expand NAC's network of clinics across the country to better serve our growing base of members."

Mr. Kane comes to NAC with more than three decades of leadership experience in Retail Operations, Category Management, Merchandising, Pharmacy, Logistics, Marketing and Business Development having previously held senior roles at Sobeys, Katz Group Canada Ltd (Rexall Pharma Plus / IDA and Guardian Pharmacies) and McKesson, where he was most recently the SVP of Operations and Strategy - Drug Trading Ltd. (a division of Katz Group Canada Ltd.). He holds a Bachelor of Arts in Economics & Psychology as well as a Business Management Studies Diploma from Wilfrid Laurier University.

Christopher Kane's appointment as Chief Operating Officer is subject to approval by the TSX Venture Exchange Inc.
